“Divided Sea” is a 100’ arc of polished stainless-steel fountains that spray sheets of water that move like fabric in the wind that was gifted by the Dublin Fine Arts Foundation. It is located in Emerald Glen Park at the corner of Tassajara Road and Central Parkway. The artist, Ned Kahn is internationally renowned and incorporates wind and water in his sculptures. Work is seen in Shanghai, London, Brisbane and Dubai; at the Denver International Airport; Minnesota Twins Ballpark; and locally at the Chevron headquarters in San Ramon.
