

Elatus, Heath Satow, 2017

Towering 31 feet above Fallon Sports Park's - Field Four you'll find "Elatus". This abstract sculpture is inspired by the athletic human form in full extension, suggesting a baseball catcher leaping to catch a fly ball, a soccer goalie defending against a high kick or a tennis player at the height of a serve. Its mirror polished stainless-steel surface reflects the sky and provides stunning views at sunset. Artist Heath Satow lives in Ogden, Utah. His public art sculptures can be seen throughout the U.S. and as far away as Korea.