

In My World, Tricia George, 2009

"In My World" was also painted by Tricia George, the creator of "Community", both of which are located at the Shannon Community Center. "In My World" works directly with the natural surroundings by painting a slice of the river and depicting it in a realistic manner. George states, "Our environment is home to so many animal species. To show this I created a setting that houses many living creatures that live in and off the river-banks. I have chosen to paint the animals that cohabitate with us in Dublin and paint them in a realistic style. I decided to incorporate the element of the past by depicting fossilized species that dwelled by the river on the pillars located within the play yard."
