

Mosaic Benches, Twyla Arthur, 1996

Located at Stagecoach Park, "Mosaic Benches," by artist Twyla Arthur, features a mosaic tile seating area, benches, and a tile planter overlaid with jewel-hued tiles. The front side of one bench has a concrete engraved sign with a mosaic tiled shamrock and the other bench front has a mosaic tiled wagon wheel. A large semi-circular concrete and mosaic tile bench faces the triangular benches and away from the playground.

Twyla Arthur began her career in public art completing mosaic tile projects for the City of Dublin, California, the University of California at Berkeley and the Bank of America in San Francisco. She moved to San Antonio, Texas several years ago and has continued her work in public art, completing projects for the cities of San Antonio and Austin, Texas.
