

Wind Light Shade = Tranquility, Bill Gould, 2007

Located near the children's playground in Bray Commons Park, Tranquility provides shade, sound and whimsy to the surrounding environment. The leaf shapes were inspired by Bill Gould's interest in featuring the environment in larger than life sculptures. It is a wind driven kinetic sculpture that reacts to the changing environment. As a Principle of Artik Art & Architecture, Bill Gould (and his Team) provide out-of-the box thinking with the specific goal of bridging educational architecture and public, participatory art.
